

New Generation Publishing

For immediate release

New Generation Publishing Launches Why Wasn't I Taught This At School?

About the book:

Regardless of which school you went to, and whether or not you continued to University, it's probable that your education didn't include some of the key things that will enable you to get the very best out of life. Experience is a great teacher, so it's said. But it's often wise to learn from other people's experience. Here is an entire A-Z of how to become more successful, wealthier, healthier and happier than maybe you've ever dreamed possible. Dave Reynolds has a unique ability to share how you can live your life to the fullest and turn your dreams into reality.

- Live up to your potential
- Accumulate wealth
- Increase your confidence
- Enjoy more energy and vitality
- Improve your relationships
- Feel good about yourself
- Take a quantum leap forward in your career or business

About the author:

From butcher's boy at age 12 to lab assistant, vacuum cleaner salesman to furniture salesman, and insurance agent to Chief Executive, Dave Reynolds learned valuable lessons on his journey to what became a successful and rewarding career. A journey that really only began when he was 26 years old and in considerable debt. Nowadays he is committed to sharing the principles he was taught as a young man that have enabled him to live a life that most people only ever dream about.

In this book he will guide and mentor you, and share with you a success system to become the person you sincerely would like to be. And to live the life you really want to live.

To purchase Why Wasn't I Taught This At School? visit Amazon

Review copies available on request – contact details below

For interview, comment and information from New Generation Publishing, email: info@newgeneration-publishing.com or call 01933 665340

